Yanzi receives order from Cramo.

The Cramo remote management solution “övervaka bygget” will be based on the Yanzi Internet-of-things software platform.

Yanzi has signed a contract with Cramo – the leading service company in the Nordic region specializing in equipment rental services for construction sites. Cramo will base its construction site management and monitoring solution on the Yanzi Internet-of-things software platform.

The Cramo remote management system “Övervaka Bygget” will enable leading construction companies to monitor energy, humidity and intrusion. All of the information will be instantly available with a smart device. Cramo will also be able to collect data continuously and present it regularly in a report. The Cramo solution will enable the construction companies to decrease their energy consumption as well as increasing efficiency in the construction work.
